University of Massachusetts Amherst researcher Fiona Almedia will be teaching and training selected Masters of Public Health Scholars (MPH Scholars) at the Department of Public Health, Yenepoya Deemed to be University and at Edward & Cynthia Institute of Public Health in Mangalore. The researcher will be focusing on epidemiological research and women's health from a global health context with special emphasis on India – US learnings and lessons. MPH Scholars at Yenepoya Deemed to be University are very excited to explore this new dimensional learning which involves field work and data sets, besides experiential learning.
